Agenda

- ▶ What is a listening dashboard?
- ▶ How can it be useful for your organization?
- ▶ What is an RSS Feed?
- ▶ What tools can help?

Basics

- ▶ Why do I need a listening dashboard?
 - To be notified when keywords of interest are mentioned on the internet

Benefits

- ▶ How is it valuable?
 - Be part of the conversation
 - Save $$$
 - Less guessing

Pre-Cautions

- ▶ Does not provide Analytics
- ▶ Isn't fool proof
- ▶ Sift through noise
- ▶ Unique Online Identity

What a Dashboard Looks Like

The dashboard is titled "Aspiration's Social Media Dashboard" and features a navigation bar with tabs for "Aspiration (44)", "Social Source Commons", "SSC Blog", "Answer (504)", "Fundraising", "NPTEch", "Tools", "OTT", "Dev Summit", "Central Valley", and "New Tab".

Why HTML Email Newsletter Editors Suck

By Matt on April 5, 2012

One of the biggest complaints we get from nonprofits as they mature in their online communications is that creating properly-functioning formatted (i.e. HTML) emails in their email blaster is a pain in the @$$$. The trouble is that having regular email blasts as an organization is seen as a baseline measure of organizational online competency after having a web site. So it's important to at least know what's going on and what's going wrong when you're sending out your email blasts.

WYSIWYGs Suck

When you're putting together an email in your email blaster with images, links and formatting, you're really writing a piece of HTML code (gasps).

Editors in blasters like VerticalResponse or MailChimp use what are known as "WYSIWYG" (What You See Is What You Get) editors so that instead of having to know how to code something to, say, look bold in HTML, they can just highlight some text and click a bold button. Anytime you see buttons like "bold" "italic" "left align" font size, etc. like you would in Microsoft Word or Open Office, you're most likely using a WYSIWYG editor. So why is this even an issue to bring up?

Recently, we had a conversation with an organization who was getting pressure to use a closed tool called Jimdo rather than the open-source tool, WordPress for their web site. Jimdo seemed easier and quicker and they wanted to know what we thought about it. Here's a couple points that we brought up with them: Using [...]

Social Media RSS

- ▶ RSS is not just limited to blog posts
- ▶ Sites publish RSS feeds for new social media content
 - New Twitter tweets
 - New blog posts
 - New bookmarks
 - New Photos

RSS from Search

- ▶ RSS feeds can also be generated from searches
 - e.g. Twitter Search, Blog Search
- ▶ Search for a term, subscribe to the RSS feed of the search results page
 - The feed will then automatically update anytime there's a new result

RSS from Social Media Search

▶ So RSS can monitor social media searches for you and update when someone mentions something you care about:

- Organization name, Exec. Dir. name, Relevant issue keywords, important people, propositions, etc.

Subscribing to RSS

- ▶ Add RSS Feed to an RSS Reader

iGoogle

Netvibes.com

The screenshot shows a Firefox browser window displaying the Netvibes.com social media dashboard. The browser's address bar shows the URL www.netvibes.com/privatepage/1#NPTech. The dashboard interface includes a top navigation bar with tabs for various content categories like 'Aspiration', 'Social Source Commons', and 'SSC Blog'. A central 'Add a feed' section allows users to enter a feed address or website URL for autodetection. Below this, there are several feed widgets, each displaying a list of recent articles or posts with their titles and timestamps. The dashboard is organized into a grid layout, and the bottom of the screen shows the Windows taskbar with various application icons and the system clock indicating 8:49 AM on 5/20/2013.

Voila!

Your Social Media Dashboard

The dashboard features a top navigation bar with 'Add content', 'Dashboards', 'widgets', and 'reader'. Below this is a header for 'Aspiration's Social Media Dashboard' with a menu of categories: 'Aspiration (44)', 'Social Source Commons', 'SSC Blog', 'Answr (504)', 'Fundraising', 'NPTEch', 'Tools', 'OTT', 'Dev Summit', 'Central Valley', and 'New Tab'.

The main content area is divided into several widgets:

- Twitter Search: 'aspirationtech': Displays tweets from users like AnthonyDuque, rachelannyes, and mrbeatz1, along with a tweet from aspirationtech about fresh fruits and soda prices.
- Recent Uploads tagged aspirationtech: Shows a photo of a group of people in a room, with a caption: 'Aspiration Tech and The Ruckus Society host the Activist Tech Teach-In on June 7, 2011 at the Center for Third World Organizing in Oakland, California.'
- Twitter Search: "allen gunn": Shows 'No results found for "allen gunn"'. Below it is another search for 'npotech' with results from NetSuiteorg, christuttle, ServeDotGov, and CityYearChicago.
- Comment Search for "aspirationtech": Lists comments from users like RT @aspirationtech and RT @goodlaura regarding hiring and social media training.
- (12) aspirationtech.org - Twitter Search: Similar to the first widget, showing tweets related to the organization.
- "(11) aspiration tech" - Google Blog Search: Lists search results for 'aspiration tech' from sources like ArtSpark Online Media Skills and Berkeley Labor Center.
- Google Alerts - "Allen Gunn" Aspiration and Google Alerts - link:aspirationtech.org: Alerts for specific terms and the organization's link.
